

CASSIE SULLIVAN

Soul Sessions

Seeing into the soul is what intrigues me most. Translating that into a photograph is empowering, brave and exciting.

I feel incredibly honoured that you have contacted me to capture who you are. If you've seen my work you probably notice that I focus on soul and story. My approach is gentle and relaxed but under that surface I work hard to capture all the elements of your story. I'm humbled you've reached out, thank you.

I shoot portraits all around Australia and the world, but it's never about the place, it's about the souls I'm photographing. I do this to connect with people, to tell your story. In saying that an interesting environment can add depth to your images just as well as your home environment can help to tell your story. Let's talk together more about your preferences.

The sessions are relaxed and happy. I love having a chat and getting to know you. By the end of the session we will be like old friends. I understand that being photographed isn't always easy, so I'll help you, being vulnerable is all part of the process and I will only ever photograph what you feel comfortable with.

A 50% deposit/retainer is required to hold your session date and time. Outdoor locations are best at sunrise and sunset. Indoor sessions have a little longer time frame but early morning or afternoon/evening is generally best for light.
